

DeFENCEless - Gardening in Deer Country

Lunch & Learn Presentation at Weston Library Tuesday March 29

Have you lost your shrubs to the deer? Have critters dug up your flower bulbs? Have you given up on ever having an attractive garden? Join Master Gardener, Alison Wachstein for “DeFENCEless - Gardening in Deer Country” an informative presentation on how you can win the battle against Weston’s furry friends. The program is part of the popular “Lunch & Learn” speaker series sponsored by both The Friends of the Weston Library and the Weston Women’s League and will be held in the library community room on Tuesday, March 29 at noon. Alison will discuss deer habits, deer “resistant” plants, deer “candy” plants to avoid (or protect), coping strategies, as well as displaying some delightful garden photography. Bring your bag lunch and any questions. With spring finally upon us, this is a timely presentation as the deer have already been making their way back into our yards after the big snow melt of the last several weeks. Join us to get educated as to how to select and protect your plants wisely.

Certified Master Gardener, Alison Wachstein has been gardening and dealing with the deer population in CT for over 25 years. Alison is also a Certified Professional Photographer and Master Photographer.
