LUNCH and LEARN PROGRAM

Poetry Workshops with Rose Horowitz

April is National Poetry Month, and in celebration the Friends of the Weston Public Library will sponsor a month-long poetry writing workshop with Weston resident and poet, Rose Horowitz.

Adults will explore writing new poems in class and keep a journal at home. Through free writing in class, students will experiment with different prompts. Students will listen to each other's work and explore a range of voices ranging from Chinese poet Basho and Langston Hughes to contemporary poets such as Marie Ponsot and Billy Collins.

Rose will help students revise one or two poems, as time permits after class, to help develop more "finished" poems. If students choose to share their favorite poems, they can post them on a Facebook group created for the course.

Wednesday, April 1, 8, 22 & 29, 12:00-1:30pm

Public Poetry Reading: April 19th 2:30PM
