

IMPORTANT VOTER INFORMATION:

On Tuesday, August 9, 2016, Connecticut may be holding Republican and/or Democratic State, District or Municipal primaries. We will update our website as soon as we are informed if a primary will be held.

All of Connecticut's primaries are "closed." This means that a voter must be a registered member of that specific party in order to vote. In other words, one must be registered as a Republican in order to vote in a Republican primary or registered as a Democrat in order to vote in a Democratic primary.

Please click on the following link in order to check if you are affiliated with a party (Republican, Democratic, Independent, Libertarian, Green, Working Families) or are Unaffiliated. In Connecticut, there is actually an Independent Party which should not be confused with being Unaffiliated, which means no party affiliation.

If Connecticut holds an August primary, the following deadlines apply:

Monday, May 9 – the last day that a voter already registered in Connecticut can transfer from one party to another and be eligible to vote in the August 9 primary for the new party. It takes 90 days for new party privileges to take effect – in this case, from May 9 until August 9.

Thursday, August 4 – the last day a new or Unaffiliated voter can register to affiliate with a party by mail (must be postmarked by this date) or online using the following link

NOTE: Connecticut DMV issued identification is required in order to complete online voter registration.

Monday, August 8 at NOON – the last day a new or Unaffiliated voter can register to affiliate with a party in person

NOTE: As the name implies, Election Day Registration (EDR) is only available on Election Days, NOT on primary or referendum days.

Our next Election Day will be the General Election on Tuesday, November 8, 2016.
