

Wednesday Evening Book Club - The Mermaids Singing by Lisa Carey

Wednesday, June 15th at 7:30 PM

"There is an island off the west coast of Ireland called Inis Murueh - the Island of the Mermaids - a world where myth is more powerful than truth, where the sea sings with the healing and haunting voices of women, and where death is never as strong as the redemptive powers of family and love... The Mermaids Singing is a novel about love and resentment between mothers and daughters; the secrets of age; and the rebellion of youth. It is about the heartbreak of being torn between worlds, and the search for a place to call home. In her first novel, Lisa Carey has crafted voices so real and passionate that they resonate within the reader long after the last page is turned." - Book jacket
